

Call for Post-Doctoral Fellows

The Centre for International Humanitarian and Operational Law (CIHOL) at the Palacký University in Olomouc, Czech Republic, is pleased to announce the opening of one position of a post-doctoral fellow to pursue research within its core area of focus relating to international conflict and security law and international humanitarian law.

The Centre particularly welcomes applications within the following areas:

- Cyberspace and international conflict and security law
- International humanitarian law and emerging technologies
- AI, international humanitarian law and peace and security
- International law and sanctions regimes

| | |
|-----------------------|---|
| Job Title: | Postdoctoral Researcher in the Domain of international conflict and security law and international humanitarian law (full time) |
| Job Type: | postdoc |
| Employer: | Centre for International Humanitarian and Operational Law, Palacký University in Olomouc, Faculty of Law. |
| Location: | Olomouc, Czech Republic |
| Fellowship duration: | 01.09.2024– 30.12.2025 |
| Application deadline: | 15 June 2024 |

Job Description:

The postdoctoral fellow will become part of the Centre's team and will be involved in its scientific research activities. The postdoc will be expected to be involved in the Centre's existing projects as well as actively pursuing his/her own projects, especially international ones. The work includes building a network of international contacts and presenting research results at home and abroad.

Requirements:

- Completed (by 1 September 2024) PhD studies with a focus on public international law.
- Knowledge of spoken and written English at least at C1 level.
- Demonstrable excellence in scholarship and research, including previous publications

We offer:

- Working in a prestigious public research institution with forward thinking and support for talented young researchers, for example through internal faculty grants
- Inclusion in a young and dynamic team in a unique scientific research centre with top performance
- Opportunities to participate in national and international projects
- Strong support for internationalisation and networking
- Employee benefits

Required application materials:

- Current CV including a list of publications,
- Motivation letter (1-2 pages),
- Scan of diploma,
- Cover letter.

Link to the application form:

<https://pracuj.upol.cz/nc/en/news/clanek/postdoctoral-fellow-1/>

Thank you in advance for your interest in cooperation. Selected candidates will be invited for an online interview based on the evaluation of the submitted documents.

If you have any questions about the offered position, please feel free to contact us at martin.faix@upol.cz.

The Palacký University Faculty of Law is committed to promoting diversity in the workplace and encourages applications from individuals identifying as belonging to underrepresented groups in terms of, for example, gender, disability, age, religion, internationality and ethnicity, sexual orientation and identity, social background and education.