VII INTERNATIONAL DOCTORAL WORKSHOP

Join us at the Early Career and Doctoral Workshop on Equality Challenges

The International Doctoral Workshop provides an opportunity for early-career scholars to connect and exchange insights on their research. The event aims to foster meaningful discussions among doctoral and early-career researchers on this year's main theme: the pressing challenges to inequality in contemporary society.

We welcome proposals that engage with issues of inequality from diverse methodological perspectives—quantitative, qualitative, and theoretical. The workshop covers a broad range of topics, including but not limited to:

1. Policy and judicial responsiveness to inequality;
2. Political participation, representation, and/or engagement;
3. Access to the public administration and/or the justice system;
4. Dynamics of power, influence, and access to public services and/or resources;
5. The principle of equality in private law;
6. Communication and inclusive language.

Proposals about closely related topics might also be considered.

This is an in-person, one-day workshop held at the Faculty of Law at the Universitat de Barcelona. Selected participants are required to submit a draft paper, prepare a 15-minute presentation, and act as a junior discussant for one of their peers' presentations.

Funding is available for up to two nights of accommodation for non-Barcelona residents. Travel costs are not covered. Please bear in mind that the workshop will issue an invitation letter if needed. However, we cannot assist with visas, immigration requirements or travel arrangements; those are the responsibility of the attending student or scholar.

We look forward to your contributions and to an engaging discussion on the multifaceted challenges to inequality!
